Prescription Medication Discount Cards and Coupons

When it comes to the rising price of prescription drugs, people are always looking for ways to save. Generic medications tend to be less expensive, but individual circumstances may require a brand-name drug. People who do not have insurance are at an obvious disadvantage in such cases. Even if someone has insurance, they may not be able to afford the deductible or copays. This is when it might be helpful to consider using a prescription drug discount card or coupon.

The following resources are available for your consideration. These resources are not endorsed or verified by 2-1-1 Arizona.

Please note that while the price comparison tools, prescription medication discount cards, and coupons are available at no cost, there may be other services or memberships offered by these companies that require payment or charge an additional fee. User discretion is advised.
